1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 What are the Tender Requirements?

Athlone Education Centre is seeking competitive proposals from suitably qualified companies to supply and serve a range of hot and cold prepared food delivered to Athlone Education Centre. It is important to note that food (Lunch) should be transported to Athlone Education Centre by 12.30p.m. and ready to serve by the catering company at 12.45p.m. Infrequently, some other meals (salads, sandwiches, scones etc) may be required at other times of the day. Athlone Education Centre will inform the successful tenderer of these requirements on a weekly basis. The purpose of this Request for Tender (RFT) is to establish a Framework Agreement which will be reviewed on an annual basis, subject to the successful tenderer executing a satisfactory three-month trial period.

The nature of business of Athlone Education Centre is dynamic and fluid. The impact of such fluidity has an impact upon the level of catering required on a day-to-day basis. There are occasions and time-periods throughout the year when the requirement for catering services diminishes or ceases to exist. Examples of such time-periods include, but are not limited to; school holidays, public holidays and other “quiet periods”. This fluidity and movement in demand for catering services is an integral part of the tender. Athlone Education Centre will not pay for such periods of diminished, low or in-activity and no compensation for such inactivity is available. The successful tenderer will receive as much notice as is reasonably possible prior to such periods of diminished, low or in-activity.

In addition to the above, the fluid nature of operations in Athlone Education Centre may result in a small increase or decrease in the numbers present for catering on any given day (over and above covers ordered at 10.30am). The successful tenderer will receive as much notice as possible after the 10.30am order time, but tenderers are required to make provisions for such situations, with a suggested 5-8% extra capacity available for such excess requirements. The cost of this allowance will be borne by the tenderer, unless such capacity is used in part or whole. In such situations Athlone Education Centre will pay only for the actual capacity utilized.

Note: Athlone Education Centre has a kitchen area with a three-bay bain-marie and a cold storage facility. Cutlery, crockery and other utensils required for service are also provided. The Centre's catering assistant supports the caterer by setting up the dining area and cleaning up after service. The successful tenderer provides adequate staff to meet the catering needs on any given day. This is to be factored into the pricing. As a guide, requirements are as follows:

- 1 staff for maximum 35 service
- 2 staff for maximum 70 service

Athlone Education Centre reserves the right to decide on the number of staff required for service on any given day.

The successful tenderer is expected to serve tea/coffee and biscuits (provided by Athlone Education Centre) immediately after the lunch service.

1.2 What are Education Centres?

An Education Centre is

“a place in which services are provided for schools, teachers, parents, boards and other relevant persons which support them in carrying out their functions in respect of the provision of education which is recognised for that purpose by the Minister...” (Education Act 1998)

The principal activity of an Education Centre is to organise the local delivery of national programmes of teacher professional development on behalf of the Department of Education and Science. Education Centres also organise varied local programmes of activities for teachers, school management and parents in response to demand. Education Centres are statutory bodies and are managed by voluntary Management Committees elected annually. There are twenty-one Education Centres with full-time status and nine Centres with part-time status.

1.3 History of the Education Centre Network

Teachers' Centres, as they were initially known, were first established in 1972 and all work was conducted on a voluntary basis by teachers. The first full-time Directors were appointed to the Blackrock and Drumcondra Centres in 1975. These were teachers on secondment from their schools. The role of the Teachers' Centres at that time was:

- To provide an opportunity and a meeting place for Primary and Post-primary teachers to discuss issues related to their work.
- To act as a resource centre which would enable teachers to prepare and construct equipment and materials for use in their own schools and, if necessary, for distribution among schools in the locality.
- To arrange in-service courses.

This definition of the role reflected pre-occupations of the time with the introduction of the new Primary Curriculum. In 1994/1995, the first National Programmes were assigned by the Department of Education to a number of selected Centres. These programmes provided funds to Centres for recruitment of temporary administrative staff to service programme needs.

Since 1995 Centres have had a much more central role in the delivery of National Programmes of professional development for primary and post-primary teachers. The expansion of the network of fulltime centres in 1997 was indicative of a new awareness of the central role of providing continuing professional development in education. This expansion was accompanied by a very substantial investment in Education Centre buildings throughout the country.

Formal statutory recognition was granted to Centres in the 1998 Education Act where centres are referred to as Education Support Centres. The Director is responsible for the day to day running of the Centre.

1.4 The Role of Education Support Centres

Education Support Centres support the delivery of professional development courses for the education community at a local level. Education Support Centres engage with many partners and agencies, including those under the remit of the Teacher Education section of the Department of Education and Skills.
